Ady Gil Sank by Japanese - Whale War Declared

PEJ News - January 6, 2010 the Sea Shepherd Conservation Society shows the Sea Shepherd's ship Ady Gil, after it was rammed by Japanese whaling vessel Shonan Maru No. 2 in Antarctic water. The boat is valued at over 2 million dollars. "According to eyewitness Captain Chuck Swift on the Bob Barker, the attack happened while the vessels were dead in the water. The Shonan Maru No. 2 suddenly started up and deliberately rammed the Ady Gil ripping eight feet of the bow of the vessel completely off. According to Captain Swift, the vessel does not look like it will be saved."
