

Miller's study into the 2009 Fraser River sockeye salmon collapse was considered a 'bad news story'

CBC News Posted: Nov 06, 2015 4:42 PM PT Last Updated: Nov 06, 2015 4:55 PM PT

<https://www.cbc.ca/news/canada/british-columbia/krist-miller-scientist-dfo-muzzled-1.3308549>

Government scientist Kristi Miller was the lead author of an article published in Science in January 2011 that suggested a virus may be linked to premature deaths in migrating sockeye salmon

A federal edict that prevented government scientists from talking publicly about their work turned them into "second-class citizens", a B.C. based molecular geneticist told CBC news Friday.

- Scientists, ministers get green light to speak under Trudeau
- Are Canada's federal scientists being 'muzzled'?

Kristi Miller, a scientist with Fisheries and Oceans Canada, told CBC News Friday that she was excited at news the newly elected federal government had lifted the muzzle from its researchers

Kristi Miller, muzzled fisheries scientist, felt like a second-class citizen

Written by Joan Russow

Saturday, 07 November 2015 12:20 -

~~http://www.washingtonpost.com/news/energy-environment/wp/2015/11/06/kristi-miller-epa-fisheries-scientist-who-was-muzzled-when-her-research-implicated-the-epa/?hpid=hp_hp-top-table-main-epa%3Aenergy-environment%3Ahomepage%2Fstory&hpid=hp_hp-top-table-main-epa%3Aenergy-environment%3Ahomepage%2Fstory#hpid=hp_hp-top-table-main-epa%3Aenergy-environment%3Ahomepage%2Fstory~~