

Online Media, Young Adults and Politics

Posted by

Wednesday, 28 February 2007 04:05 - Last Updated Wednesday, 28 February 2007 04:05

Online Media, Young Adults and Politics

Newsdaily Canada - PEJ News founder Alan Rycroft is studying the intersection of media and politics. His Masters thesis asks the following research question: "What influences and roles do online media and mobile media have in the political awareness and engagement of young adults?" September 2: The final paper, [Young Adults and Virtual Public Spheres: Building A New Political Culture

(PDF), has now been published on

Sunshine Communications

. A

summary of the thesis

can also be found in PEJ News.]

If you are between 19-30 years old, your response to his online questionnaire will form part of the data for his thesis. To take the 10-minute survey point your browser to:

www.surveymonkey.com/s.asp?u=990393384755 -- SORRY: Survey Now Closed Thank you.

If you have any questions about the research project please feel free to contact:

Alan Rycroft, Candidate
Master of Arts in Professional Communication
Royal Roads University
Class of 2007

info@PEJ.ca

(250) 592-8307 phone/fax